

Preparing You for an In-demand Health Science Career

In an uncertain economy, the health care industry remains a sector with strong job growth¹. Chicago State University's College of Health Sciences provides the opportunity for students to study in fast-paced, academically rigorous programs that prepare them for a successful career in various healthcare specialties. We offer a variety of undergraduate and graduate programs:

Undergraduate

- Health Information Administration
- Community Health
- Nursing
- Pre-Physical Therapy
- Pre-Occupational Therapy

Graduate

- Master of Occupational Therapy (MOT)
- Master of Public Health (MPH)
- Master of Science in Nursing (MSN)

The College's academic programs are student-centered with small classroom sizes—an average faculty-student ratio of 1:19. Classes are taught by professors, not teaching assistants, to ensure students receive the one-on-one attention they need to succeed. We pride ourselves on our faculty-student collaborative research project and our service-learning program that enables students to take what they learn in the classroom and apply it to real-world situations.

csu.edu/collegeofhealthsciences/

Master of Public Health

CSU's new MPH program prepares students to address health needs of the 21st century by focusing on the core functions of public health: health status assessments, environmental health quality assurance, behavior change strategies, health disparities, as well as health policy development and research.

Master of Science in Nursing

The newly approved MSN degree program is designed to prepare nurses for the challenges facing the profession in the 21st century by focusing on community health nursing, nursing administration and nursing education.

CHICAGO
STATE
UNIVERSITY

¹U.S. News and World Report, April 1, 2011 <http://money.usnews.com/money/careers/articles/2011/04/01/march-jobs-report-brings-good-newsfinally>

A Dynamic College Community

Chicago State University is where people throughout the world come together to learn, research and achieve success. Our ideal location in exciting Chicago also provides opportunities to enjoy our city's outstanding arts and entertainment scene. Whatever their preference, students find the activities they want at CSU.

Visit Our Campus

Call today to schedule a tour to visit our magnificent campus and discover the people, programs and activities that make the CSU community unique and exciting. While visiting CSU, students have the opportunity to:

- Tour our beautiful and scenic 160-acre campus
- Talk with students and faculty who will share insights on the CSU experience
- Have questions answered about classes, financial aid, student housing and much more.

Visit us online!

csu.edu/collegeofhealthsciences/

Schedule your tour today!

Office of Admissions
(773) 995-2513

Chicago State University
College of Health Sciences
9501 S. King Drive, BHS 607
Chicago, Illinois 60628

(773) 995-3987

www.csu.edu/collegeofhealthsciences/

Chicago State University is accredited by The Higher Learning Commission and is a member of the North Central Association.

CHICAGO
STATE UNIVERSITY

