Event Overview:

The Work is an immersive, somatic, and experiential therapeutic narrative designed to explore the profound intersections of depth psychology, modern clinical practice, and traditional rites of passage for men. Geared toward mental health professionals and clinicians in training, this exploration bridges the gap between theoretical psychodynamics and the transformative power of experiential group work.

WHO SHOULD ATTEND

Students: Build foundational knowledge in non-traditional interventions, depth psychology, and group therapy modalities.

Professionals, Supervisors, & Educators: Enhance your therapeutic toolkit with somatic techniques and refine strategies for working with male clients.

Community Members & Families: Learn how supportive relationships, cultural traditions, and community-based care can strengthen men's mental health and wellbeing.
